SEND THE LOUD ALARM AND MOBILIZE THE SWATERS.

For time is here again and an editor would be derelict in his duty if he failed to sound the alarm and call for the mobilization of last year's swatters. The propaganda work isn't as hard as it used to be. We don't have to use long rows of figures now to show Carbon county residents that billions of flies will be playing tag around the house in August if they fail to knock the first luncheon visitor in the head tomorrow morning. Neither need we present all the harrowing details of filth and disease connected with the normal existence of this domestic pest. The public knows that flies are nasty and dangerous, and has got the habit of screening houses against them and swatting them and flypapering them and keeping the house and yard clean so that they have no place to breed in.

But a word must be spoken against the ever present danger of relaxing the eternal vigilance without which the plague would soon return. This is no year for letting up the anti-insect work. More than ever we need cleanliness, unspoiled food and sound health, and we cannot have them unless we have flyless houses. That our boys abroad may have everything necessary in the way of ammunition, clothing and food it is necessary that the workers at home, the ones whose duty it is to furnish those things, keep in perfect health. The loss of one man or one woman in the vast army of workers now means more than it ever meant before.

Sickness is our foe now more than in normal times. We must keep fit that we may keep our fighters fit. We can best do it by murdering the greatest disease-carryer known to humanity—the housefly.

One of the few real enjoyments we find in the newspaper business is in knowing that no walking delegate can come around while our country is at war and tell us we've got to go out on strike.

Every time we hear an Eastern Utah flockmaster grumbling at the price of sheep and wool—and there are some who are—we feel like grabbing a club and going after him.

It is possibly a great comfort to the kaiser to know that all of his six sons are large enough to keep away from any place where there's danger.

With this issue The Sun enters upon its fourth year. How's it doing? Pretty well, thank you. Pretty well.

That German fleet is going to come out sooner or later. But what worries the kaiser is how its going to get back.

One trouble with Isaac Newton was that when he discovered gravitation he didn't apply it to prices.

Because of numerous attempts to send through the mails to foreign countries coin and currency, the post-office department is again calling attention to Order No. 721. "In conformity with the proclamation, and the regulations thereunder, issued by the president on September 7, 1917, concerning the export or shipment of coin, bullion and currency, it is hereby ordered that United States coin or currency, gold coins, whether of United States or foreign mintage, and gold bullion are prohibited transmission through the regular or parcel post mails to countries outside of the United States and its possessions." This prohibition does not apply to foreign currency and foreign silver coins, which remain subject to other provisions.

The continuation of favorable operating conditions, both of transportation and mining, during the week of May 11th, are reflected in the production of coal which gained 2.3 per cent over the week of May 4th and exceeded slightly the record of the week of April 27th. The total production in the week of May 11th is estimated at 11,496,000 net tons, or an average per day of 1,949,000 tons, compared with 1,929,000 tons the first week of May, and 1,829,000 tons in May, 1917.

Ira H. Browning, state road engineer, is author of an article on "expansion joints" in concrete paving, which appeared in a recent number of the Engineering News Record. The method described employs a smooth steel plate, eight inches wide and as long as the width of the roadbed. After the concrete has been tamped around the joint and the expansion material, the steel sheet is removed.

lars this year in exterminating the larkspur in Colorado. The plant obtains to some extent in this state, but not nearly as much as in Colorado.

The two pounds of wool from the president's prize sheep, sent to Utah to be sold to the highest bidder for the benefit of the Red Cross, have been sold to the Desert Live Stock company, which bid two hundred dollars. C. B. Stewart of the Utah Wool-growers' association, who had charge of the bidding in this state, closed the bid Wednesday. In spite of the fact that most of the sheepmen of the state are busy "lambsing" and are away from home, a total of $1584.50 was received in bids.

Germany Demands Cattle.

ZURICH, May 27.—The German military authorities have demanded of Poland to furnish Germany with a hundred thousand head of cattle and thirty thousand pigs. The amount demanded represents one-fifth of Poland's live stock.

WOOL CROP RULES HAVE BEEN RECEIVED LOCALLY

Regulations for handling the 1918 wool crop of Utah have just been received from the war industries board at Washington. D. C. The California regulations will apply to all states west of the Missouri river and Utah comes in this classification. The rules for Utah provide that the grower is not permitted to sell, but he will receive the government set price for his wool when he has consigned it to any approved distributing center. The dealer who handles the wool will be paid his commission by the government and this item will be saved to the grower, who will receive the government price less freight to the Atlantic seaboard and less the interest on any advance which may be made to him up to the time the wool arrives at its destination.

C. B. Stewart, secretary of the Utah Wool-growers' association, says: "It is just as we expected. The government needs all the wool it can obtain and the growers are willing to ship out to the best of their ability." The mills which are located in wool-growing districts and have government contracts will be permitted to buy from the growers only within a radius of fifty miles and will not be permitted to buy from local dealers. Under the new system the dealer's commission, amounting to 4 per cent, the freight and the local commission are eliminated and these items of expense are saved.

The rules also specify that no mill can resell except to the government and that the owners of managers must fill out questionnaires relating to the business.

Operators of byproduct coke plants report production during the week ended May 11th at 88.2 per cent of maximum capacity. The ratio of production to maximum capacity was lower than during the preceding week and the slight decline is attributed to labor shortage. The shortage of labor has caused losses of potential capacity for the country as a whole to time from 0.4 per cent the week ended May 4th to 2.3 per cent.

FALL HATS FOR LITTLE GIRLS

Although there is plenty of variety in shapes as shown in displays of millinery for little girls, hats with drooping brims continue to hold first place in regard to every one. For all around wear felt and velvet hats, like those shown above, leave nothing to be desired.

An average man will spend six weeks in agonizing doubt as to what to give a girl for Christmas, and six minutes in buying it. A woman will spend six days in finding just the thing to give a man for Christmas, and then go back and exchange it six times.
